SICK MEALS

Bon Appétit is happy to provide sick meals for students with meal plans who cannot attend regularly scheduled meals due to illness. Meals must be ordered by noon the previous day. Sick students should not pick up their own meals. Students should ask another student to bring their MIT ID card (and his or her own MIT ID card) to the dining hall to pick up a sick meal. One meal (breakfast, lunch or dinner as applicable based on time of pickup) will be deducted from the student's weekly meal balance or the cash price deducted from his/her TechCASH or Dining Dollars account. Meal plan participants will not be permitted to obtain another meal in the House Dining rooms for the meal period in which they have had a sick meal.

Meals must be ordered by noon the previous day. Completed forms need to be turned in to the dining location at which the meal will be picked up by noon the previous day or emailed to express@mit.edu. Each meal will be deducted from the student's meal plan as if the student was eating a meal in a House Dining location. Carry Out options are available Monday to Friday only.

Students should pick up meals from the requested house dining location within an hour of the designated time. Students needing to cancel a meal order should call 253.4952 at least 12 hours in advance of their meal pick up time.
