OUR HISTORY

A Brief History of the Mission Church and the Adobe Lodge

Mission Santa Clara

On January 12, 1777, six months after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, two Franciscan Padres founded the eighth of California's original twenty-one missions, along the banks of the Rio Guadalupe. Mission Santa Clara de Asis, as they named it, served as a spiritual center as well as a school for the Indians and early settlers.

Three times in the early years - twice after floods, and once after an earthquake — the mission moved to safer ground. The fourth mission, built in 1819, was remodeled and expanded in 1825. The present Adobe Lodge and the Adobe Wall on the campus of the University are all that remain of the 1825 mission. The present Mission Church, an enlarged replica of the 1825 church, was completed in 1928 after a fire had destroyed the previous structure.

In 1850, the new bishop of San Francisco asked two Jesuits to open a college at Mission Santa Clara. The property was transferred to the Jesuit Order and classes began on March 19, 1851. Thus, Santa Clara became the first institution of higher learning in the State of California.

The Adobe Lodge

In 1965, the Lodge was offered to the University as the campus faculty club by the president of the University at that time, Fr. Patrick A Donohoe, S.J. In 1980 Norton S.Curtis and Associates of San Jose and Santa Cruz based "Old Mission Adobes" were contracted for a full renovation and restoration which included an excavation of the site in 1981 conducted by B. Mark Lynch, Assistant Professor of Anthropology and Gerald McKeivitt, S.J., Professor of History, with the assistance of five students. The careful restoration ensured the design of the adobe walls and tile roof to be consistent with that which the Franciscan Fathers used in all California Missions.

The paintings displayed in the main dining room portray the rich history of the Santa Clara Valley. As one faces the raised dias, the paintings on the right side of the room were painted in the 1880s by Jesuit Brother Tortore, who served as an art instructor at the University of Santa Clara from 1874 to 1904. On the right side of the room are paintings from 100 years later, painted by Professor Peter Pierson in the 1980s. As a former Chair of the History Department at Santa Clara University, Professor Pierson is both an artist and an historian. The Adobe Lodge, rich with the history of the Santa Clara Valley, continues in its role today as daily retreat for faculty, staff and their guests. The Lodge is also open to the general community for hosting special events.

- No amplification will be allowed for outside music unless your event is within an enclosed tent. The spoken word may be amplified as long as speakers are facing away from the Mission Church. Interior amplification should never exceed 80Db (the level of a loud orchestra). The management may close windows and doors starting at 9pm to reduce noise.
- Damages to the facility including those that require unusual cleaning will result in fees assessed related to repairing the damages. Examples of such damages include wax spilled from non-Adobe Lodge candles, unusually dirtied restrooms, or inappropriately disposed of personal litter.
- The Adobe Lodge does not bear responsibility for lost or stolen items. Our procedure is to send any items left behind home with the wedding party.
- The Mission Gardens are a public area and part of the historic Mission Church.
